In the Fourth of July procession at Banger, Maine, were sixty-six soldiers of 1812, about five hundred of the "boys in blue," and a Revolutionary soldier of 1776, the wenerable William Hutchings of Penobscot. aged over a hundred years. The Bangor Whig publishes the following speech made by the old gentleman while sitting in his chair under a portico where part of the exercises of the day took place. After thanking the audience for his reception, and stating that he was present to gratify others rather than himself—although being there gave him the greatest pleasure—he said: At the age of fifteen I enlisted for the defense of my country—and I have stood by her in all her subsequent perils. I have atways been in favor of my country. I was through the battle of Bagaduce. Our ship-ping on the Penobscot was all destroyed and our soldiers were obliged to fly through the woods to the Kennebec. My father was obliged to flee with the rest, When he re-turned the Tories threatened his life. Mother was so distressed that she coaxed father to move away. He got up a party and went to Damariscotta, where we lived until the war was over. I was there all the time except when I was in the service of my coun When peace was declared we returned agaduce. Our buildings were burned. fences all gone, father moor and mother sick There were ten children to be supported by tather's labor and mine, for I was then in my 18th year. It was a gloomy time, but God prospered us. I don't know what will be done with the men that made this cursed, wicked rebel-lion. Jeff. Davis and the assassins of our noble President ought to be treated as God's law says: "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed." Such a wicked thing as Jeff. Davis at such a wicked thing as Jeff. Davis attempted was never done before nor rever will be done again by man. The papers say he don't like pea soup. I guess the poor, dear boys that he starved to death would have been glad to have got pea soup or bean broth. He ought to go hungry. I have no sympathy with copperheads who support Jeff. Davis. I call them chowderheads. I have been much troubled lately because it seems as though they wasn't going to allow all the loyal men to vote. The black man is made tree, and I can't comprehend now a free man can be deprived of the liberty of the ballot-box. God's family is a free family. Christ made all men free, and no man can help it. The negroes must no be deprived of their rights. The Presiden will not permit it—Corgress will not permit it—and if they will, God will not permit it—never! never! NEVER!!! NEVER!!! NEVER!!! My heart is filled with joy that this rebellion is put down. And, dear soldiers, it does my heart good to know that you have returned home. I have always prayed for you, and the blessed God has answered my prayers. The country owes you a debt it can never repay, You have put down this wicked, awful rebellion, and the good God to bear. I do not deserve it. They told me it might kill me, but I could never die any better than celebrating the Fourth of July Good bye-God bless you all.

The London Spectator, alluding to a re The London Speciator, alluding to a re-ment wedding ceremonial, remarks: The weddings of the Rothschilds are be-coming state events, and the whole family appear to have attained a position somewhere between peers and princes. The marriage of Miss Evelina de Rothschild second daughter of Baron Lionel, to Ferdisecond daughter of Baron Lionel, to Ferdinand, second son of Baron Anselm de Rothschild, of Vienna, was celebrated on Weddesday, In the presence of a circle such as few peers could gather together. The toast of the bride and bridegroom was proposed by Mr. Disraeli, that of the foreign guests by the Dnke of Somerset, and that of the bridesmaids by the Lord Chief Justice. The papers are full of the splendor of the scene, and some of them report the speeches at full papers are full of the spients of the social and some of them report the speeches at full length, we suppose with the permission of the family whose privacy is invaded. The only point in them worth repeating was the Duke of Somerset's, who said the family distriction had fully had succeeded where politicians had failed and produced a "union of the nations."

Fourth of July--Statue of Horace Manu -Old Quarrels Extinct-Publishers, Books, etc.

EDS. PRESS: Of course we celebrated yesterday, and except that the high wind spoiled the regatta and prevented the flight of the balloons, and the usual want of punctuality on such occasions, tried the patience of spectators, the celebration went off satisfactorily. The weather was magnificent. The multitudes, numbering tens of thousands, were orderly; the guests, Anderson and Farragut, and returned veterans and disa-bled soldiers, were treated with enthusiashospitality, and all the rejoicings had sh fervor from the fact that the slave-pow-treason had been thoroughly thwarted its attempt to divide the galaxy that azes with new luster on the nation's ban-r. The advent of peace and the preservation of the Union, gave added significance to the day consecrated as the birth day of a republic, stronger and mightier now than ever before. It would have been pleasant to you to have seen how rational and joyous is the fanaticism of eastern Yankees out for a holiday. The plan here is to crowd the Fourth from sunrise to two hours of midnight with a series of attractive entertainment for people of all ages and complexions. It follows from this arrangement that the city is quiet as a country village so far as rowlyism drunkennessand other violations. rowdvism.drnnkenness and other violations of law are concerned.

Among the incidents was the inauguraion of the bronze statue of Horace Mann. In front of the State Honse, opposite to the statue of Daniel Webster. The services were almost extemporaneous; but they lost nothing of appropriateness on that account. The most agreeable thing about the ceremony was the absence of all reference to old collisions and disputes. No doubt the zeal that determined years ago that the Great Educator should be honored equally with the Great Jurist, ha a title of party spirit in it, and was meant to show the world that he who recommended Massa-chusetts to conquer projudices ugainst an anhuman and anti-democratic institution ase protesting against wrong, was not the fairest or completest representative of the oublic sentiment of the Old Bay State. But time, stirring events, and the victories of freedom have put an end to the bitter controversies of the past; and no allusion was made to them by those who enlogized the earnest and indefatigable friend and advocate of free schools. Only the best associations with the errors of those two greats.

tions with the careers of these two great men were recognized. Thus time has been a benefactor by purging away bitterness, and bringing back kindly feelings. In this local return of good will may be seen som-promise of the future day when the sections of the land kept secunder by only one disof the land kept asunder by only one dis-turbing cause, will be as one in a glorious and initually respecting and mutually helpful harmony.

But when I began to write I meant to deal with books, und not with polities. You know of course of our most prolific publishing house, Ticknor & Fields. The periodicals, the venerable North American Review—more fresh and readable in its old age than ever before, if we except the years of its aspiring youth, when Edward Everett and others began to make American litera-ture—the Atlantic Monthly, which criticise it as Yankee critics will to show their own brightness, is equal to any magazine of its kind abroad—Cornhill, Blackwood or even the new and promising Fortnightly, which ought to be super-excellent to carry such a name—and though last and smallest, yet by no meane least, Our Yonng Folks, for juve nile readers esp cially—these periodicals advertise Ticknor & Fields the land over. But they are also to be known by their books. During the war they hardly paused trom issuing a volume or volumes every week; and now they keep their printers term in speaking of refined products, in Poetry, Fictions, Essays—in fact all departments of Belle Letters. The original verks and reprints they bring out are of the corresponding to the worth of the letter-press. Their oblue and gold" series—their editions of the Waverly Novels—De Quiny's works-and the works of other authors. it home and abroad, of sterling and abiding nerit, are suitable for every public and private library. It any of your readers want a proof of this fact, let them order the "Far-ringford Edition" of Tennyson, just issued, and they will be satisfied that though bush has been hung out, the wine is of the purest vintage notwithstanding. I speak of Ticknor & Fields at this time, because they are about taking possession of a spacious and elegant new store on Fremont street, and have opened a branch establishment in and have opened a branch establishment in Broadway, New York. But the comparatively new firm, known now as Walker, Fuller & Co., are also making their mark as publishers of standand works, in a fitting style. Among these are the translation of Martin's History of France, Miss Martinean's History of England, the Life of Horace Mann, and Reason In Religion, by Rev. F. H. Hedge, D. D. Tnese last two volumes deserve special at tentiou. The first, by Mrs. Mann, may not be perfectly impartial; but as she quote-largely from her husband's letters and dlary, it is easy to gain from it an insight into the mind and heart of one strong among the strong, and devoted as a martyr to what he believed to be the true and the right. Of the second it is safe to say that it s a contribution to American theology and metaphysics, that no thinking man should leave unstudied. It is not sectarian or conoversial; but it is protound, scholarly and catholic. The discussions are dignified, calm, and conducted with a singular corsectness and clearness of style. Dr. Hedge s one of the thinkers of the times, and writes with the earnest of deep conviction.

nnswayed by passion or prejudice. A Suggestion.

Southern conservative papers, we observe are clamoring against any extension of the privilege of suffrage. They would prefer to have its boundaries contracted. It will not do, they tell us, to allow the poor and ignorant to exercise so important a trust; i hould be confined to the wealthy, the in luential, the intelligent. All very pretty heorizing, no donbt. But will they please o inform ns whether, in their opinion, the boor and ignorant could make a worse use of the privilege than the rich and intelligent wicked, awful rebellion, and the good God will reward yon. I have lost grandsons in this war, but it is a glorious privilege to die for one's country. Thank God, there are no tories in my family.

I thank you all for the great honor you have done me; it is almost too great for me to bear. I do not deserve it. They told me to bear, I do not deserve it. They told me to exercise the privilege than men of the privilege than the rich and intelligent lave made in the past four years? In the stowed than it ever has been in the South. If intelligence is more generally diffused than in the South, and those who are landless, and almost homeless, are better qualitied to exercise the privilege than men of the privilege than the rich and intelligent. tied to exercise the privilege than men of the same class in the Southern States, it is be cause the right to vote has stimulated thought and culture among them. Enjoying the right, they have endeavored, according to their means, to qualify themselves to exercise it intelligently; and to say the least, they have not made so deplorable a country of the themselves. least, they have not made so deplotable a mse of it as the higher classes in the Southern States. The arguments used by these conservative papers turn against those who make them, and rather favor than oppose an extension of the privilege of suffrage. If its limitation to the few is calculated to con-serve the interests of the Republic and strengtnen the bonds of Union, South Carolina should have been the most patriotic and devoted of all the States to the Federal Government. We fear that the effort to restrict the privilege, or keep it within its old bounds, in the Southern States, is made in the Interests of the unscrupulous politicians who led the South into rebellion, and still hope to control its political action. It is self-interest, and not the national welfare, which they seek to promote.—[Cincinnati

Present of a Bust of John Bright to the American Nation.

From the Manchester Fxaminer. Some weeks ago we called attention to a marble bust of Mr. Bright, which was then on view at Lomax's Art Repository, in Princess street, the work of a youg seulptor of the name of Wood. The owner of this work of art designed it as a present for the late lamented Chief Magistrate of America, Abraham Lincoln. communication also contains the painful intelligence—painful, as its brings to mind the painful history of the 14th day of April last—that this present was origi-nally intended by Mr. Blain as a gift to cur now lamented, martyred Chief Magistrate Abraham Lincoln.

Led, as all true Americans have been led. to look upon and respect Mr. Bright as a true and earnest advocate for freedom, as well as an urdent friend of the nation, Mr. Lincoln would have highly prized this handsome gift from the generous donor; but, under the circumstances, deeply appreciating the intentions of Mr. Blain, the "great American nation"—to which he has now kindly proffered the present, and which has been "so ably and successfully piloted through and out of her recent perlis' by "the great and good man" for whom this bust was intended, but who now sleeps from his labor at his home in Illinois-through her present Chief Executive officer. ccepts the memento of his esteem for the

You will present to Mr. Blain the sincere acknowledgments of the people of the Uni-ted States for this valuable present, with the assurance that his kind—words and actions are I'nlly appreciated; and as the visitor shall look upon the bust of the English de-tender of America as it is exposed to view n the Executive Mansion-where it is soon to be deposited—the name of the generous public will not be forgotton, but, with that of John Bright, shall have a place in the hearts of a grateful people.

A Cholera Panic in Europe.

[From the London Telegraph, June 2] The cholera is on its travel-that fierd and pitiless plague, which has its residence in the East, but sallies forth at periodical intervals to decimate West, North and South. From time to time we hear of the wholesale in Central Asia, deaths in Southern Russia, regiments disbanded by death on Indian marches, and rivers chocked with corpses in the islands of the Eastern Ocean.

The last Red Sea news brought word that Mecca and Medina are this year vast lazaralong the road to the shrines from Jeddah and the southern ports and Sheiks who had come to kiss the Kaab turning back in horror, with their trains succumb in tents and houses where the had shut themselves np. Already Egyphas been reached, and the fellahs there are perishing by thousands; so much so that he Italian and French harbors are shut igainst vessels from Alexandria.

Marseilles has kept all the mail boats in quarantine ever since two moribund pas-sengers were landed in the Jolliette; and at ast we ourselves have been obliged to con-ront a peril that cannot be disregarded. The newspapers and letters which went out of the general postoffice on Tuesday last were sent in boxes instead of bags, to prevent infection being carried out of Egypt by the mail passing through the country. That, indeed, is not a precaution on our own behalf, but it will also be observed with regard to the overland dispatches coming homeward.

All the instances we enumerate, and others which might be cited, prove that the cholera is on its periodical march; and, without ascribing to the same source the ontbreaks in North Russia, Poland and Prussia, it is at the least possible that the year may be signalized by the invasion o hat enemy which patriotism and conrage annot keep out of our island.

Confederate Names.

The English style of classifying the two elligerents in our civil war as Federal and Confederate, implying that they were both of the same character, has been meekly adopted by many who knew no better. No so Capt. Boggs, of the U.S. steamer Connecticut, who recently stopped at the port of St. George, Bermuda. The following is related:

She reports that in all but the English is lands she was treated with respect and courtesy. On arriving at St. Georges, Bermuda, Feb. 24, the pilot showed Capt. Boggs n circular from her Majesty. ordering all rebel or Federal men of war to anchor under the guns of the fort. The Captain, how-ever, chose to let go his anchor beyond range of the fort, and next morning a little gunboat came up and requested Capt. Boggs o go down and call on the Governor. Or ook the Captain to task for having disc eyed his orders, and asked if he did not see he circular from the Queen.

"Yes," replied Captain Poggs; "I saw a circular from you, directing that all Fed-eral or Confederate vessels of war should be emchored in a certain spot; but as I am in command of neither of them, I took the liberty to use my own discretion."

A look of blank amazement overspread the Governor's face as be asked.

"What do you command?"
"I have the honor to commanh a United States man-of-war," replied the gallant old sea dog, who so nobly upheld the nonor of our llag at New Orleans. He was not at all willing to have Englishmen or any foreign nation designate him by a term that would ndicate the dissolution of the Union.

A case of inhuman crnelty has lately been revealed in Madison, Wisconsin. A little redress. One terrible feature of the case is girl and boy had been penned up by their aunt in a woodshed for the purpose of starving them to death. The girl died some time ago. The woman has been arrested and the boy provided with a home.

According to the Assessor's returns, the firm of Schultz & Truschel, of Wheeling, have manufactured and sold, during the last month, three and three quarter tons of candy, which may be considered a pretty sweet business. During the same month, the tax on nails sold by the Belmont Nail Works amounts to $4001 70. Works amounts to $4,001 70.

This would reduce the total actual value what is left of the South to $1,200,000,000. Mr. T. G. Yankee Emigration to Mexico.

The Mexicans warmly tavor Yankee em-The Mexicans warmly favor Yankee emigration to Mexico. A correspondent says they all want the auxiliary force to come; and the Imperialists fear it will come, and discuss the matter in serious tones. They do not like Northern papers, teeming with tilibustering ideas and accounts of emigration societies forming for adventures in Mexico, circulated in their midst, societies by which the emigrant course provided by which the emigrant comes provided with a masket, bayonet, several rounds of animinition, a spade and a copy of infantry or cavalry tactics, instead of a hoe, a prun-ing-hook, and a box of Bibles and several large bundles of tructs from the religious societies of Philadelphia. The Imperialists do not relish the idea of receiving such a do not relish the idea of receiving such a "peculiar style" of "latterday" emigrants." They are afraid the first game bagged will be "Maximilian." At first the people both at Bagdad and Matamoras were positively impolite to us Yankees. Now they are gradually getting more considerate, if not polite. It is interesting to observe what a wonderfully conciliating effect the sight of Yankee by wonets have fect the sight of Yankee bayonets have on our imperial neighbors. No doubt said bayonets would have a very softening in-fluence if once transplanted to Mexican soil. The universal hope of the people is that the Yankees will come and deliver them from a foreign yoke which is both op-pressive and obnoxious. To this end they are preparing. Their hope is equal to a faith that we will come, and If we do it will be sure to be the death stroke to French and Austrian aggressions in this quarter. Some say that Maximilian will work the silver mines to the very latest moment, and then retire, if the United States assumes a fighting attitude. The "foreign importasupported, are tired of the country. Half of his army would to-day desert if they only felt sure that the United States would not return them as deserters. Already a few come over to our side by swimming the river. A day or two are one of the the river. A day or two ago one of the German soldiers deserted, got to our side, and finally into one of our camps. He was followed by an officer of the imperial army who attempted to arrest the figitive and take him back. The deserter appealed to the United States soldiers to protect him and they, without further consideration, savagely "invited" the imperial officer to leave the camp, and he did so sans cer

The Garden of Fountains.

A project is now on fcot to establish a garden in the upper part of this city which shall combine the amusement and pleasure to be found at the Cremorne or the old Ranelagh Gardens of London, and the instruction in art to be gained at an academy of design. It is to be called "The Garden of Fountains," for the reason that from seventy-tive to one hundred of those elegant ornaments will be scattered through the grounds.

Negotiations are now pending for the purchase of a piece of ground in the vicinity t the park and on the banks of the North iver, where the garden will be established The projectors contemplate establishing a place which shall surpass in magnificence anything of a similar character heretofore known. For this purpose several years have been devoted to collecting models and casts of the most celebrated works of art in Enrope, and also from Egypt and Greece The garden when completed will contain about one thousand specimens of these works of art. The fountains will exhibit every conceivable form and style of jet, and interspersed among them will be vases, dogs, birds, and other works of art. The uniterial of which the statues are made is pulverized Portland stone, which is afterwards artificially petrified. By this process, it is claimed that the stone is renlered much more durable than it would be n its natural state.

In the garden will be a large hall for balls, concerts or lectures. The disciples of Terpsichore will be enabled to enjoy their favorite amusement on a large daucing stage, in the center of which will be the or-chestra, built in the form of a Chinese pagoda. To secure a winter as well as a ummer garden, a large glass building will be erected for the reception and preservation of rare flowers during the season of frost and snow. Artilicial lakes and waterfalls; cool, snady bowers and moss-grown grottos, together with rustic arbors and tastefully lald-out flower beds, will form some of the many interesting features of this proposed

The grounds will be about eight or nine acres in extent, and the projectors hope to have it ready for the reception of visitors at the beginning of next spring.—[New York n a late London paper: The emigration from Ireland has turned loose hundreds of thousands of dogs to be-come wild. One member reckons the Irish dogs at a million; another at a million and a half; and Sir R. Peel at two millions. These vagrunt dogs worry sheep, and cattle, and pigs, communicate vermin to them, spoil their health and their repose, hinder their fattening, and kill off the sheep by thousands in a year. The sheep killed out-right and reported to the police, were 6,147 in 1864; and in an incalculable number of cases the police are not appealed to at all, so small have hitherto been the chances of redress. One terrible feature of the case is ported; in the next ten years, fifty-seven cases; and in the ten euding in 1861, sixty-one. This was while the fatal cases in Scotland were too few to alford material for an average; and while in England they had declined from twenty-five to three in the latter ten years. In County Down, it appears, the farmers had left off keeping sheep at all, so great were their losses from dogs. In Donegal, 1,410 sheep were so destroyed last year, and in only 440 instruces. stroyed last year, and in only 449 instance in the six thousand and odd were the own

HENRY C. BURNETT AND AMNESTY. We understand that a paper is in circulation, procuring signatures to a prayer for the pardon of H. C. Burnett, late member of the rebel Congress, from Keutucky, and now on bail, under an indictment for treason. It strikes us it would be quite as well to hear the evidence pro and cou, which his trial may elicit, before hurrying up peti tions for his pardon. The style of Burnett's advocacy of secession at the commencement of our troubles, the treachery and mailce he displayed, the wild tumult of violent pas sions which he aroused by his magnetic power as a speaker, and the ingenuity of his devices, are not the circumstauces best calculated to predispose loyal people to exert themselves in behalf of his exemption from all penalties or even trial, for his ter rible offenses against the lives of his fellowcitizens, and the structure of society itself. Those who remember his career in the summer of '61, as that of the chief anarchist, the most effective disturber of the peace, the most successful inflamer of reckless and malignant passions then in the State, will prefer to hear his defeuse in a court of justice, before making any very vigorous ef-

No man was more guilty than he, none more efficient in misleading men into had left it, an abiding and active curse, and a perpetual incitement to guerrilla atrocities. In a speech on the 15th of June, 1861, he declared that it would not be "three mouths before every Union man in his district would have unpleasant sensations about the neck." He was in the habit of telling Union men that if he had the power he would hang them without delay. Union meu, he declared, should be called "Lincoln dogs" and weara collar about the neck. In manifold ways, and with potent results, ne inculcated all kinds and extremes of lawless violence towards loyal men. He aspired to be the prophet and prince of ruffianism in Kentucky. And it is iogical and just to trace much of the violence subsequently exhibited by prowling bands of 'Confederate robbers, to the inspiration of his malicious tongue. "Sue Mundy" was a vulgar ruffan. Iu his pursuit and persecution of Union men he broke through all moral restraints, violated all laws of civil liberty and of civilized warfare.

The military anthorities captured, tried sentenced and hung him. And public sentiment approved and felt grateful. But did Sue Mundy do much worse, or much else than to execute the policy which this reckless agitator had been teaching with intense persistency and vigor a few years before?

We have no desire or intention to prejudge this man's case, uor will we predict what his penaity may be, or declaim before hand against its being remitted or commuted. But that the facts of his traitorous career should be brought out in au orderly, ample, and systematic way, before an appropriate tribunal seems to us in the highest degree wholesome and proper. If we are mistaken, then our laws against treason are vanity and foolishness, and should be swept ont of existence without delay. If Henry C. Burnett is to be pardoned without a trial, we see no justification in trying anybody and the exceptions mentioued in the amnes ty proclamation should be disposed of in body by a new proclamation, from which all exceptions are omitted.

THE GAME IS HIT.

The magnificent speech of Gen. Roussean which we published a few days since is already producing a panic in the enemy's camp. It has proved a ceuter shot and a tremendously effective one. The Demoerat in its issue of yesterday rambles through nearly two columns of characteristic slipshod comment upon this speech without attempting to answer, or even to meet its main points. The Democrat's article is an encouraging example of helpless wriggling. The wounded bird flutters. The spectacie is cheering. The only attempt at making a point in the article referred to is in the effort to respond to Gen. Rousseau's searching exposure of the Hon. Bob. Mallory's congressional career as an osten-Mallory's congressional career as an ostensible Union man. This point (or what in the distressing scarcity of resources the Democrat is willing to pass for a point,) is that a portion of that career so remorsely exposed by the General, occurred prior to 1863. And that nevertheless he was in that an open to the prior to 1863. And that nevertheless he was in that an open to large mineral and a consider, and there on to large and a consider, and there on the large and a consider, and there on the large and a consider when the part of the control of the contr exposed by the General, occurred prior to 1863. And that nevertheless he was in that year re-elected to Congress by Union men.

The answer to this is not far to seek and need not be elaborate.

The Union men who voted for Mallory in '63 were by no means unanimous in the endorsement of his opposition votes in Congress. But they believed him patriotle in his course, and actuated by unqualified devotion to the Union. They therefore—a great number of them at least—conquered

A peace was purchased with the Sioux in '56, and furnished the key to all his previous acts, which General Rousseau has handled with such consummate skill in his masterly interpretation of those acts. That interpretation will stick to the Honorabie Robert a good deal closer and longer than his old constituency. The steadfastness of his adhesion to the malcontents and obstructives in Congress, punctually opposing every measure, great or small, important or triviai, calculated to thwart or damage the rebellion, presented in its entireness, amply reveals the true animus of his conrse, and the blunder in voting for him, into which Union men were cajoied in 1863. We hold that a chastisement should now be inflicted that will prevent forever the recurrence of war. No Indian tribe has ever lived at peace till after such a chastisement. Mr. Mallory a Virtual Disunionist and Repudlator and Revolutionist.

[For the Union Press.] Mr. Mallory, June, 1864, said: "I am very much afraid, Mr. Speaker, as I charged a few moments ago, that by that policy, by that persistent effort to exterminate slavery by means of cruel and unconstitutional extract from such recollections any very acts, they have succeeded in rendering a continuation of this Union impossible, and they may, in that way, have made shivery the cause of the dissolution of the Union. And Mr. Mallory, in the same speech, denounced us abolitionists for "heaving up a nutional debt at a fearful rate for the benefit of shoddyites and the manufacturers and capitalists of the eastern States," and in regular copperhead style appealed to "the people of this country" not to submit to be "impoverished by exactions to swell the bloated coffers of the eastern millionthe bloated coffers of the eastern millionaire enriched by sncking like a vampyre the blood of his country," but "in the exercise of their power, to wipo this debt and the barnacle fortunes that hang to it, out of existence!" He insidiously spoke for repudiation, and should he, Harding, and their like ever get the ascendency, (which God forbid!) they will act for repudiation.

He also denounced the Constitutional Amendment, then before the House, as nucoustitutional and void though it should be oustitutional and void though it should b passed and ratified; as a usurpation, to went the consumnation of which and

LOUISVILLE THEATER .- With the engage ment of Miss Ada Gray, who stands first in her profession, we hail a return to the le-gitimate drama, where real merit alone wins the applanse of an audience and the patronage of play-goers. It is singular that the dramatic mlud seems to regard vulgar-its as however and observity as the keeper the dramatic mind seems to regard vulgarity as humor, and obscenity as the keenest polish of wit. The most fortunate and popular "stars" of the present day have laid aside the true honor and dignity of the stage, and degraded it to the level of a barroom or a concert hall. Miss Gray has determined not to fall into this too common stars. She is further word of the common of the error. She is justly prond of the profession she has adopted, and is confident of pleasing by adhering to what is considered a legitimate. In this she will be supported those who visit the theater for the by those who visit the theater for the pur-pose enjoying a moral entertainment. Her rendit on of "Julia" last night was splendid. We have seldom, if ever, heard a better or more correct piece of reading. The andi-ence appreciated her acting, and attested in by frequent applanse. We hall her as the "Young American Star." For the bill to-night we refer to our FATAL RENCONTRE AT LAGRANGE.-W FATAL RENCONTRE AT LAGRANGE.—We learn that an affray, fatal in its results, occured at Lagrange, Monday, between Lieutenant James Bradley, of the 13th Kentucky Infantry, and Mr. Allen Williams, a citizen of the town. It appears that Williams made an attack on Lieutenant Bradley with a knife, and made several thrusts at him. Bradley, in order to defend himself, drew his revolv r and fired, the ball striking Williams in the corner of the eye, and lodging in the head. Williams lingered until vesterday morning about daylight, when vesterday morning about daylight, when he expired. An inquest was held, and the jury returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts. Bradley delivered himse, tup, and had an examination. He was discurred, the Court deciding that the shoot ing was in self-defense.

Never was the anniversary of our jude peudence so generally observed all over the country as the last. In almost every town, hamlet and city, the day was celebrated in some form or other, but generall in the old fashioued way of gunpowder speeches and music. The people met to show their respect and veneration for heroic ancestry who achieved our liberties and to welcome home, with grateful hearts a patriotic citizen soldiery, who have brave ly preserved them. If the former are held in grateful remembrance, the latter should be no less so. Let their heroic patriotism be ever connected with the salvation of on country, and then no partizan malice or si-ly prejudice will be able to impair in the st their patriotic services.

Some time since a man named Amo Taylor, of Eastmanville, Michigan, took into his employ as a domestic a disreputable woman, I nown as Mrs. Hatch. Her presence in the family soon caused trouble between Mr. Taylor and his wife, resulting in the wife being shamefully abused, as the story goes, and compelled to leave he home. The ladies of Eastmanville, about twenty in number, armed themselves with blue beech-gads, and proceeding to he [Faylor's] residence one night, a short time since, gave him a sound and doubtless richly-merite i thrashing. The man Tay-lor, as soon as he had sufficiently recover ed from the chastisement, had the ladies ar-rested for the offence.

The arm-chair used by the fat wo man at the museum, in St. Louis, was on Saturday levied upon to satisfy a judgment of $39.48 in favor of a doctor. The doctor had attended upon the giantess, and on her failure to foot his bill, had the chair seized the only portion of her worldly effects that could be got hold of. The chair is about three feet wide. The chair is to be sold at constablely sold in a large sold at constable's sale in a day or two, and or in want of a settee, a lounge, a church pew, or a buggy body, can buy this chair and convert it to the use required. On a pinch, it would make a second story law office, stand for a band of music, or the pilot house of a small steamboat.

There was a prize fight on Saturday morning, on Foley's Commons, back of Covington, between two men named Dam. Stevens and Henry McBrine. Stevens was knocked down on the first round. The three succeeding rounds resulted in McBrine going to grass, when Stevens proposed to stop the fight and resume it at some other time, which was agreed to. Neither of the parties were very badly punished. John Phillips and Robert Clark ished. John Phillips and Robert Clark were the seconds in the "mill." Warrants have been issued for the arrest of all concerned in the atlair. MASONIC TEMPLE.—There was a large audience at Masonic Temple last night. Miss Kitty Blanchard has won the affections of our soldiers, and they go nightly to see her. We were glad to notice that the stage machinery worked better last night. It is not yet perfectly arranged. To-night a good bill is offered. Go, everybody, and see the "Pet of Sherman's Army."

World says some very important statements were made in semi-official quarters to-day with regard to the policy of the Government in the Mexican question. The story comes in such a shape that it cannot well be believed, and is, first, that the Government will not permit another French or foreign soldier of any sort in the service of Maximilian to be landed on Mexican shores without a firm and decided protest. Second, and what is of the gravest importance that the Government having station ed in Texas an army of 100,000, and will keep it there to act as a corps of observation and to exercise such physical and mor al pressure as shall ultimately compel the withdrawal of Maximilian from Mexico. This army has been so disposed that it overshadows, especially on the Rio Graude, the Mexicau frontier and keeps foreign levies off. The new Emperor is in an inces sant state of apprehension.

If a collision should come the United States would have at hand a large force to maintain its dignity. It is understood that twelve or lifteen thousand Confederates are in the Mexican service, near the Texas border; and it is definitely settled that if they are tronblesome they will be punished, even if pursuit should throw our amies
